Summary: This is a description of what saw when died, with as many details

The first thing I knew, I was looking down over my self on the floor, my body was gone, my spirit was floating above it. It was weird if I had thought about it at the time it was meant to be.

I then left my self lying on the floor, though that is not my self as I myself was completely gone. The spirit of who I am, my character, my soul, everything I am, was just the need of a body just pure spirit.

While out of my body I remember flying as such, all around my city; to see everything almost like saying good bye.

After this I found my self in the woods, near to where I lived. I felt so in tune with understanding how it all worked on a symbiotic level. Strangely at first, the trees of life were in the woods. I went to the first tree of life in front of me, it was flashing back and forth. Yet I within my spirit I could feel how they were connected, yet others they would as they only are affected by people's feelings and actions, like if you have a pebble, if it is perfectly round where do you poke it with your finger, there is no where to stab.

As I was absorbed into the tree of life an overall feeling of all nature, be it the grass, the other trees, knowing their feelings and thoughts. Also as if it was to rain, if nature needed it.

After understanding this that nature worked as a large circle, and how the tree of life was linked on a micro biotic level.

Every creature with in the woods also knew and felt as the tree of life as if it were large branches. Knowing that if there was a storm, everyone would know the direction of the branches of the tree of life.

I went through the tree of life, and down to the roots, as I entered into the earth, soil, and left the tree where I had felt I was safe.

As I entered the afterlife, I had my life flash before my eyes. Now this is what I saw as I saw all the "ramifications" of my actions! (I didn't even know this word) I saw how when I hadn't explained something correctly to my friends, it would lead to me doing something, to affect one person; this lead on to others and how this would affect them. It was a little overwhelming and then as soon as that had finished; I found myself in a dark, murky brown color like dark soil; yet as I came closer I saw that what appeared to be brown were in fact loads of strands of different colors. Each of these strands are people as spirits.

I could see and hear and through these colors, I could understand who they were.

their lives.

Yet I was more bothered about what "I" had just seen about "my" life, and how I could have been so stupid; to let people down as I had done.

Not always meaning too, yet after seeing how many things had been my fault in terms with!

As I looked around other people were doing the same thing, thinking, and billions in fact!

As I approached this place to begin with, I had seen it went on and on, now now (unlike it had been before I also felt, in other word it is getting worse). Now in side this level and as I looked around the people near me where a and their past life's, yet mainly saying it wasn't their fault.

They were busy pointing and blaming others; about how they hadn't lived as expected them self's to be whilst alive. The thing was though, no one was blaming each person was just talking about their own personal issues. Yet no one couldn't understand why and so approached some people to ask them and Yet they didn't like how I had interrupted them in their babbling, and were how it wasn't there fault.

I slowly started to feel my soul sinking in despair, and become like they Yet with in my spirit something wouldn't let me, and I started to tell them about saying sorry!"

Also that I wasn't worth anything, that really I would be a blade of grass in the universe and why weren't they happy to be like this also?

They really didn't like that and instead of sinking slowly; they dived on me with blame and hatred of others.

Most people there were very judgmental and couldn't look at them self's; they hadn't realized how ugly they were on the inside, whilst polishing their faces. Basically to sum up this place in one word, as I have been doing is EGO!

As all people had some reason not to face what they had done, yet instead of whom they were; yet not saying sorry for their mistakes.

Now realizing this in death, their shell in which the ego hides had gone was shocking to them.

As they slowly smothered me completely, so all there was was a mass of my self becoming weaker.

At the last point before they almost suffocated, who I am, I had what you within the very center of my spirit.

At first it started as a little light, with one main purpose and I kept shouting "Oneness".

This light began to grow in me and get brighter and brighter, "I know oneness" this didn't make logical sense to me; as during my life and what I could see in religious books, I had read and I would have thought of loads of things, I would shout, like "I know Jesus", and other things to that nature to help them. Yet this was so strong "I know oneness", then the people who had been crowded to get flung off; like being in a scrum and someone with a big hand pulling the scrum, from the outside of it. This as they got cleared away was a bright light and the hand of God.

This pulled me up away from this place, which was like being in a basement use the word soil, yet it was microscopic the energies that are contained in these strands of pure energy, and each of these strands was a spirit or person. Their numbers of this basement were like counting the grains of sand in

Now as started getting taken up, things became lighter.
The lowest level was actually light when in it, as each soul resonates with it, there was no order to it, from a distance it appeared murky dark brown and a distance. Then as I went up, I realized that the level above the next, had control over it. I feel now and at the time, that the lowest levels were the dense matter and the levels above, are those who had understood parts of this existence and the truth. As I was brought up in the light, the levels had become brighter and brighter. The levels across became narrower as less people had attained the parts needed to understand like being in a pyramid so the bottom was larger than the top.
Finally after going through numerous of these different levels each with its own meaning, it slowly becoming lighter.
I left this original place, which was like this large pyramid, and came into a new place of crystal light, in other words there were rainbows and it was the most soothing and slightly pink.
I say this place was separate, yet it was still part of the 1st place, yet it was beyond the pyramid levels to a transcendental level; that pass time and space and was timeless and perfect.
The spirits I saw, were like glowing rainbow balls of these strands I had seen. Yet these strands had made a reflection of themselves, to contain many of the characteristics of the original strands by itself, or squared by the reference added by the author).
Within one of these beings, these were angels and this was heaven!
As I entered, I began to hear the most beautiful music; that was the most beautiful I ever heard!
This music emanated from every single last person or being, within heaven with pure intent and with so much love it is hard to express in words. Not a single note or melody, the whole song was perfect.
Each person sang their own melody, yet the whole thing worked together in perfect symbiosis works.
I can explain why now as well? as it was all in sharps!
Higher frequency, when we use the c scale it is slightly dropped in frequency. Many laws in music, which make it very hard to compose a piece of music. The music of heaven is like the birds.
In heaven everybody's main chorus is in sharps, if they wish to express emotion on the c scale to show emotion, yet not continuously.
You can observe what I am saying here, as our birds do it, as do new born babies on the c scale to express things, like if a baby cries in an "a"?
You know it needs something a "c" and it is content.
I now feel this is what is meant by the fall, as we use the c scale as the standard. In this we miss the fact that music is an emotion and a way to express ourselves. Most animals still do and babies can until we teach them discipline of language. Now as I began to sing, too the center of this circle, it left my spirit as a pure sound.
This wave as it hit the center of the circle, it came back to me in another form, stronger, more pure and this contained infinite wisdom, knowledge and love. It was like a drink of nectar going into every part of my spirit, and making me whole without need for anything ever. As I thought something, of how does this already knew all the answers. So there was nothing you could ever possibly provide for, before the thought had been issued, the answer comes.

So I sang more and in the return the energy of these returning waves of the more I sang.

It is/was so satisfying I miss it; I could spend infinity just playing in the the others and being at one with the whole universe.

As from here you can understand everything, if you don't understand all everyone was in constant song and the whole place was alive, with sound people songs to God.

Now while I was heading up to see what was in the center, I passed by a I stopped as I passed, we both were interested to see who the other was This felt as though, this was a normal occurrence, that you would pass y balls of light, and learning what they knew also as there is no such thing As we floated around each other, we understood everything about each o been in their previous lives. What they had done, skills they had acquire they had coped, the pure intrinsic soul of another nothing to hide all sha no regrets.

Now this was clean love, there was no wanting or taking as already every God, and so all you did was learn and use this energy to help the univers While you interacted, you remained separate as being you, yet also these interwove in and out of the other persons feelings, what they felt and un thought and images.

Then as I left, there was no feeling of we will ever meet again, yet a sim path. With no after thought, of will you see the spirit again, yet in thank passed on to each other.

After this I felt I should go to the center, and was almost drawn there as of wisdom, love and knowledge.

This first part I had been in was unconditional love!

The spirit resided there and I had met, had been many things in different many care for others, the person I met showed how she at one point had helped keep the family together through extreme adversity, by being so l words the person had lived oneness, not just talked about it yet been it a and kind at all time and now even in heaven was still striving for this, by This area was very airy and light, and as I moved on, it became still ligh more strong and directional.

It was almost like some peoples eyes, where you have the outside being with many strands of different colors.

Well this is how it is in heaven for me, now this next area I came into, w Although the person I had met was extremely loving, they weren't a genui (genius= God in us)

The energy from all the lower levels was being passed through this area, is what I now feel it means by an intercessor.

As I looked around this area, people noticed me and were delighted to se I still get a glow when I think about it and how some people reacted shou back". Almost like I was the party organizer and was coming into an ama needed part, as I would make the party even more bouncy.

Now around the center were many different energy's that I recognized by they had said in their religious books; whilst in my last life, yet intrinsic I recognizing the character of there was Lao Tzu to the left middle, Yesh the left top.

Now to understand this correctly it was a circle. Almost like the Knights the table is God in the center of the knights.

Now each of these around the throne, was and is so determined in its self message of oneness!

They had educated others in it at all costs, all through their many lives. Where as on the 1st level of love, these balls of energy were multiple copies parts from different lives that made them who they were. This level was individual would remain the same, still having taken parts from different many lives, there is an underlying continuation of who they are and what This level was wisdom; it still contained the unconditional love of the firm and channeled in focus with wider understanding of what love is and all universe to God.

There were roughly 12 to 24, as it was like a clock, when I say the positive color and pure energy's.

Not like people you could count, yet definitions of certain energies. Between that blended to the next, again like an eye and this was the Lens, which center of this circle, being God.

Now unlike the 1st level of unconditional love, that was simply playing me had passed that and sat right next to God

The whole appeared more to be working; taking random messages from the sequencing them and coordinating these into logical patterns, as not to v

Now when I first got up to the center, God appeared to be a man sitting on Yet I was also aware at this point, that this is what I expected God to look God appeared.

To each and every person God, will appear as they expected as God is perfect welcome and content this is so.

After talking for a while, I wished to see, truly what God was, then the image was removed and so I saw again these same strands.

This time there was so many I could not count them, unlike the first when these the same, yet disorganized i.e. (people with ego that don't trust God confusion).

As what I now saw was an amazing, intrinsic dynamic logical database or compressor synchronization system with every variable of the universe part system, which can evolve with in it self from the information it makes. Simple form is God or Allah or any many of the other names it created for it.

From here every breeze splash is felt in the whole universe and beyond terms of the universe is it, the universe is Maya it exists.

This place and the whole of heaven doesn't exist it never did, yet always before the beginning of creation i.e. the universe, Zion, matrix, ect.

God was ultimate wisdom, knowledge and intelligence, God isn't some being illogical way of looking at things as many think God judges them simply on

Yet cause and effect is questioned in any matter to the beginning and back always been; you just look into life and you see the whole of existence in

So you understand why a disease is passed down in control dramas from the beginning and to the end or abuse in a family and why a person

Understanding the whole beginning to end, why we are told not to judge.

In a way you could describe God like a computer, for those who understand God is the central processor of the whole universe. The elders are like registers before it is passed on to the processor. The hard drive is the book of life matrix. Life itself is the operating system (i.e. Life system version 5). Yet really within this I can also put it another way and God is also the whole. So if God wishes, God can re-format the whole system and start again and God, yet change the operating system. This would also remove any dynamic programs that have crept in, yet are needed, and slowing down the system. As many stories I have looked at in many religious books, God does not get free of human emotions. This is why I say like a computer, as everything is Yet for us to be even able to understand the most basic of these principles disintegrated. As the immense amount of energy used to understand these processing power that most processors would simply burn out at a glance. Those who sit by the throne or center of the circle have proven time and worthy, and can cope with remaining at God's side. I will say this is what is meant by Elohim, these who sit around the throne. Hopefully in showing everyone how the matrix functions, they can understand gets muddled up often, within its meaning.

Now some bits of the whole ethics of Christ was God, that a man could be as God holds the universe together. Christ being God's energy would destroy him, and not a single one of the self in the center of the circle, as it is, as it is for a reason!! The center is perfect as it does not take, it gives, no one thing taking it, as then they have cause a ripple through the whole of heavens and no one ever would, as none could even get close, unless allowed and to take, it is only in true service that it is understood as we are one. We are not two and not a trinity, yet one a single mind, a single thought, it? Look into recent research within us being linked around the world subconsciously being used to show this same fact. So as for a devil and a battle no chance as to even escape the pyramid, near perfection, in the sense of keeping the commandments, doing good to it wisdom. To learn to be as a dad to all, instead of having any ego helping others. I think one big point; I haven't mentioned is it is the small things of the things, so heaven is at hand, means its all around you, it's not some miles it's everywhere! There are properly loads more points, I can add to this and descriptions; really do it justice in words. So the best way is if I show you all, as I would love it if we could help you needed to enter.
