THE AGE OF KALI

One set of dualities is prescribed for man (male and female) in each age.
Liberality Alone.

Define Liberalitiy?

This is a time of broadmindedness.

A willingness to share freely.

Generosity.

Abscense of narrowness, prejudice or judgement.

The ego is not fully engaged, rather a state of being must exist.

pg. 307, World Scripture: A Comparative Anthology of Sacred Texts

Kali is the light and the dark, the shadows in between.

This Goddess energy exists within all things for it brings us impermenant creator Goddess.

Compassionate as perceived by the mind of man in one moment and destr another. Yet, why are we judging when judgement is not ours to behold.

Life was created with the purpose of an end. Living with the challenges o growth. Each given their own measure.

It is a matter of perspective and to judge it, while in the midst of it, is f judgement of 10,000 things.

So I ponder this...is it limitation you saw or merely the duality of a time

The rest of your post seems more personal and reflective.

My heart is saddened when it penetrates every cell of my being recognizing meet even one women, who does not seek to change you. HMMMM! I thou

One women who can not accept you as cellularly different and changed m is the natural state of all beings. The women herself has also changed. D well?

Why else have we conditined our minds to ask at each meeting "How are we did not recognize a change has occurred? Actually the changes have many levels, if we were only to seek them out and ponder their significance and meaning. Remember to think upon this the next time you hear these words or speak them. "How are you?"

An example: I see, as a woman, future partners, be it lovers or friends for the rest of my life. I see them go forth.

I see first the potential that is within myself and my own commitment with the world. For me is God.

I look to this as my foundation and decide if a longer term relationship with you is possible. The strands of lights I see emanating from each of us. Yes, admittedly I see many levels.

Are they indeed heading in the same direction, similar perhaps? I take time to notice similarities and honor the differences, as well. For in duality both will exist.

To assume all women judge in this era or that they are out to change another person they are longing to change is themselves whether they are conscious of it or not. Please do not personalize it any other way. It is about them, not you. In this instance.

Thank you for letting go of your preconceived ideas and accepting those who are different. Live your life with an open mind and an open heart. Know that I believe.

Allowing change into your life is vital and allowing the other to change, is equally important. Remembered. Let it be.

Are we not all seed planters? Whilst you lay upon your bed at night do you sow seeds I sow within your heart? Some I am aware of and others merely dreamt.

What attachment occurred in our communication of the days events? How did it feel?

Each of us need time in nightly meditation and reflection to ponder these thoughts. Did I ever touch the life of another? What was our service of the day? How could I have chosen it to be?

Our dreams will take us to these thoughts if we do not confront them directly. For our own growth and change and in service to the other.

Kali lives on and will continue to be. Change is upon us all.

Yes, you are open hearted and lovingly receptive Zanda and we as women are always in your presence always!

Yet, not like a girlfriend at all...no, more like a "soul" friend. For even in the quietest peace and joy that "is" silence between the words shared, the understanding is there.

persists and is ongoing. It follows one through the day and into the night and awakens each new day.

Live in the NOW! Resist the need to be the controller or to be controlled destructive force in your own life, this applies to all who read these words growth over stagnation and join Kali in change as liberality!

In Love and Light,
