Oh for Heavens sake, piss me off today!

For those who do not know, I had a stroke and died, (actually 3 strokes I had of another on this site who for sure had a near death experience.

Perhaps more than those who would care to confess have died and been their stories inside only we know to be truth. We have seen the other side. I do not understand. You did not have the experiential lesson I did. I do not glorify death around and send it in a completely different direction. It did turn the other priorities are not the same. I live life, so that others may simply live the Charles Kingsley has a quote I love: We act as though comfort and luxury were the requirements of life, when all that we need to make us really happy is so simple about!

I for one am enthusiastic about Living, Breath, Spirit! Peace! Oneness!

Death is not being glorified, nor is it being mystified, hidden and feared by humanity in so many cultures.

Good thing I haven't added the curse feature yet, because in my mind right now words to use before I do! I ask no forgiveness, for I am entitled to feel the same as each of you.

Ignorance! Do not put blame outside of such minds as those who would sacrifice to take not only their lives, but those of others. Choice! This happens, I am under a rock. Yet, when they believe it is because their God wants a sacrifice as an honor and a ticket directly to His Heaven, this is where in my opinion That is thinking of their own minds, their cultures making, yet do we even their own small children in too be the ultimate sacrifice to die. I for one am fighting for peace. Following orders. I pray he chooses discernment moments

Rather, where is the compassion for perhaps they just do not know! It is their time. They seem boxed in by their own thoughts and unable to use discernment they have been told. How sad indeed. I often wonder what hides within minds I learned that lay distorted?

What sickens me is that the parents of these same would strap that same children and send them into what they perceive as enemy territory and stand there am mortified! "Poof" Vanished before their Mothers eyes! I would sooner such as this! I love and honor our Soliders for what they face and pray e God's will be done in the highest good of all mankind.

Actually I am not sure even why I was spared for certain. A day often do not wonder why a child has died rather than I. It is an endless question, know the answer and I accept this. I trudge on...give each moment my be
