So many people say we are the highest and if we look, we can find a million opposing this view...

We say we are the highest because we have the biggest ego, yet does th

Most people's first point would be, that due to we know how to kill animals more sophisticated????

Highest in the food chain, lowest in morality....We kill more than we need to consume, again a bigger ego.....

How many animals stock pile its prey for fun?

Most animals can communicate telepathically and sense emotions, from elephants we don't even know how to use or smell which they use with 20x more accuracy

We say as we can philosophize and animals can't, does that mean we are Yet what does that really mean....We have a bigger ego to deny that animals don't understand the complexities of oneness without the need of religion or organization...A sense of knowing God without the need of controli.e. a mustard seed within the many books it is found.

If in a computer the faster the bus speed, the faster the processing can be done. A dog's bus speed is 7x faster than our own, so therefore can process 7x faster than we do.

This is clearest with a fly, which in summer when its heart moves faster can catch it; as to it we are moving in slow motion...So again showing a point that animals are above us...

Please don't even think of resorting back to we know how to kill the fly, sophisticated, as that just shows how barbaric we really are.

Next we can say we've tamed animals by giving them food and treats, yet they've tamed us, to feed them while they lie on their backs all day?..

Animals stay like a child, if you ask an old man how old do you feel, they will say middle age person how old they feel they will say like an old man, due to we were created to torture ourselves...

So why do we lose the way for half our lives, to lose innocence, unconcern, imagination and even knowing how to play...

Now this doesn't apply to everyone and there are people which understand inherently, yet we could call these (future or sent back to help) angels a

We could say as we know how to clean up after our self? Really question ask yourself if it was left with just nature, where symbiosis happens on e
