

Title: Conversations

Subtitle: The origin of the universe

Second Subtitle: Re: The origin of the universe

Author: qOLOp

Date: 1119323830

URL: https://www.wizanda.com/modules/newbb/viewtopic.php?topic_id=13

It seems that the only way to explain anything that we believe in, is faith in creationism or especially evolution. It is just something that cannot be explained.

Like to have a being that creates. If He is God, then He can do whatever He wants. Matter from nothing because He is a creator. He can create a new soul and He created angels and humans and gave them human souls. Angels are different. They are not born, they do not die. They exist in the supernatural and so do we here on earth. There is evidence all through the bible concerning this including the fall of man and judgement of the angels being separate events. Not everyone believes the same. Some chose to interpret the bible the same way as others. This is belief.

Faith also applies to evolutionists. They have to believe that there is no beginning, everything came from cells and such. Somehow they have to justify that matter somehow just happened, evolved into a breathing, living thinking being and a type of beginning. Yep, that takes a lot of faith! Go to reasons to believe in evolution is a great cooperation of extremely intelligent scientists who can talk over the years in creation. There site is dedicated to the showing of evidence that there is a beginning.

I personally do not understand a great many scientific things but I don't think I can spontaneously create greater beings. Beings with systems in them that work like a thinking being.

I know the angel statement is going to hit a nerve with wizanda and I am sure he will love Him dearly. But this is about stating our beliefs, right? I don't believe in evolution. I see. My heart and soul agrees with him that we have to all believe in God. It is not the same as God because we cannot create the universe. If any man could create a rabbit with a rabbit.