What is happening in our life is a really stupid situation: where I can prove Heaven, prophesied in many of the world's religions, where our name is in the names of many of them.

Since I've got no one to help, for years I've tried talking to religious people and their way to debunk me, and ridicule the concepts.

What is prophesied next is everyone will be destroyed as Armageddon kicked off when Betelgeuse goes supernova; where all of your efforts to get famous, rich, and successful in the long run, as soon it will all be gone, and only our friends will exist in a

Now I've tried explaining advanced concepts of theology over the internet, but I'm just getting noticed, and I feel completely censored for years.

Having had a Near Death Experience, I can quantify how the 10 Commandments are a spiritual ladder, as dimensional quantum physics.

I recently wrote to the Chief Rabbi in London, who wasn't bothered in even his own religious prophecies before Judgement Day.

Since a child before being able to read, I've remembered things from two lifetimes ago to prove I was Yeshua back then, and yet I get no response from people, to be isolated, in a reality I helped create.

This leaves me in a situation, which I knew would happen at 5-6 years old, where I didn't properly listen to how they'd already been deceived; where the world is a mess of false teachings, and then this whole reality will be cleansed with fire.

So the whole situation is really stupid, as you're all wasting time working hard when it isn't going to change what soon happens; the only thing that can save you is yet if I share the wisdom I've been given, people in authority decide to censor me, so what is the point even trying to share info to save everyone's existences?

Does anyone care about the return of the Messiah, the coming of the final days, etc?
